

Apussuit Adventure Camp is Greenland's biggest and only ski sport resort with direct access to the 1000 meter high Apussuit glacier. The area covers 250 square kilometers. Apussuit is located 25 kilometers from Maniitsoq.

The oldest building is from the late seventies and the newest one was built in 2003.

On top of the glacier is a plain with soft hills at an altitude of 800-1100 meters, which makes it one of the best cross-country areas in the world. This is why it has been chosen as a training camp for some of world's best cross-country skiers. But any cross-country skier will enjoy skiing in this beautiful spot.

On the sides of the glacier skiers and snowboarders can go off-piste and if this is not enough, it is possible to do day trips on snowmobiles to the huge Kangerlusuatsiaq glacier north of Apussuit. Here, even the most demanding skier will find great challenges. Apussuit Adventure Camp Aps is also used as base camp for a lot of the ski touring activities.

The camp consists of a number of cabins with a capacity of 24 guests. The cabins are heated and there are good toilet and bathing facilities (hot water). A generator based power system supplies the camp with electricity.
